NOTED EXPERTS ON HUNT FOR INSECTS

Particular Attention is Given to the Alfalfa Weevil

Dr. Titus, representing the state in its investigation of the alfalfa weevil; Prof. Erbine, representing the government; Prof. Batchelor of the Agricultural College and J. Edward Taylor, secretary of the state board of horticulture, were in Lehi the latter part of the week investigating weevils, peach borers, slugs and other insects pests that are worrying the farmers and fruit growers of this locality. The weevil experts have recently been trying to destroy the weevil by means of burning them. On several fields north of Lehi they have used a machine that covers the ground with a flame of burning oil. The alfalfa is just coming up after the treatment and promises to make a fair stand where they have ample irrigation water, but from data available, it would be more economical to let the weevil have the alfalfa and ship baled hay in from Idaho.

Prof. Erbine, the government expert thinks that it will never be possible to exterminate the pest, but is very confident that a plan will be evolved by which they can be controlled. He told of one farmer who has a thirteen-acre second cut tract that stands waist high and is just now coming into blossom, and promises to yield an exceptional tonnage, while completely surrounding this thirteen acres the second cut owned by other farmers has hardly commenced to show life and the weevil in myriads is eating it almost as fast as it comes up. The owner of the thirteen acres cut his first stand when it was but half developed and when the weevil was in its larva stage. He then went over it thoroughly with a strong tooth harrow, each tooth of which had attached to it a steel brush which apparently brushed and mashed every worm and bug in the field. He followed this with a smoother, similar to those used by the beet growers in leveling their land, on the front of which was fastened a sharp steel plate which cut the crowns of the alfalfa off smooth with the ground and made a complete dust mulch. This method, besides killing the weevil, put the soil in excellent condition and gave the alfalfa such a fine start that the weevil from the surrounding farms seemed to have little effect, and this farmer declares that he will have more and better hay than he has ever grown before.

Prof Erbine also advocates a thorough disking late in the fall, when the little insects have hibernated for the winter. By giving the fields a thorough going over with a disk of alfalfa rejuvenator just before the frost comes, most of the weevils can be killed and a good stand be insured for the coming year. His plan is to work the alfalfa both in the fall and spring which besides killing the weevils so improves the soil that the former will get a heavier yield before the weevil comes. CRISIS IS NEAR IN MOROCCAN AFFAIR

Negotiations Between France and Germany at Standstill—War Scare is Increasing.

Paris, July 26.—The situation in the Franco-German complication regarding Morocco is regarded as unsatisfactory by the foreign office. All negotiations have come to a standstill. It is understood that Germany is insisting on her original program of compensation, including the cession of the coast of French Congo. Should France persist in returning a non-pas-simms, Germany would want the application of the Algeiras act according to Germany's contention, namely, that the situation in Morocco should be today what it was in April, 1906, after the signing of the treaty, and that France should evacuate the interior of the country.

Nothing is said, however, about Germany's withdrawal from Agadir, the occupation of which France understands would be objectionable to Great Britain. The French press prominently publishes the announcement from London that the British administration has canceled the proposed visit of the Atlantic fleet to Norway, and this movement, taken in connection with Chancellor Lloyd-George's speech before the English bankers, is thought by the papers to show not only the intention of Great Britain to stand firm, but that the negotiations have reached a crisis.

The press generally is sober in its comments.

SEN. SUTERLAND'S GREAT SPEECH

virtue I regard as essential to our continued development along sane and symmetrical lines.

If the visionary and the dreamer, the agitator and the demagogue, could succeed in tearing them from the stately edifice of constitutional government, which, builded by the wise and loving hands of the fathers and cemented by the blood of the Civil War, has proven the sure refuge and shelter of all our people throughout the years in time of stress and trial, no man can foresee what miserable and inadequate makeshifts might be set in their place. Mr. President, I look with grave apprehension upon the present-day tendency to overturn, uproot, and destroy these vital and fundamental principles of representative government under which we have made and are making the most wonderful moral, social, and material advancement mankind has ever beheld. But, sir, I preach no gospel of despair. My sure confidence rests in the saving grace of the sober second thought of the American people, for, in the last analysis, we are a practical and a conservative people, sometimes, it is true, dreaming with our heads in the clouds, but always waking to the realizing sense that we must walk with our feet upon the earth. Sometimes the haunting spell of the darkness is upon us, but in the end the night goes, "the dawn comes, the cock crows, the ghost vanishes"; we open our eyes and all the uneasy and terrifying visions disappear in the light which fills the east with the glowing promise of another morning.

RECIPROCITY AGREEMENT IS NOW LAW OF UNITED STATES

Signed by the President With Gold Pen Which He Presented to Senator Penrose.

Washington, July 26.—The President signed the Canadian reciprocity agreement at the White House at ten minutes after 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The famous document which is responsible for the existing extra session of Congress, was signed with a gold pen, which the President personally purchased with the intention of presenting it to Senator Penrose, chairman of the finance committee of the Senate, who had a great deal to do with the favorable consideration of the measure in the upper chamber.

The President sat at his desk alone when he was performing the act which signaled his understanding of his own duty to the United States and the faith which was due to America's greatest neighbor, the Dominion of Canada.

In order to observe strictly the historical properties, the President declared that he would not sign the agreement unless Mr. Knox, the secretary of state, was present. Mr. Knox did a very large share of the preparatory work, arranging the mutual tariff concessions, and was in thorough sympathy with the idea from the beginning to the end.

The agreement was signed by Speaker Clark a few minutes after 12 o'clock in the House today, it having been previously signed by Vice-President Sherman in the Senate.

SPORTSMAN and TELEPHONE

EVERY TIME a man wants to get away from all connection with the busy world, the telephone is an important helper.

The Local Service is useful in arranging his affairs at home, and the Long Distance Service of the Bell System helps him to decide where to go and what to take.

By means of his Bell Telephone he can find out whether the fish are biting or the birds are flying, and whether guides or horses can be secured.

After he has been out awhile, if he wants to get word from the city, the nearest Bell Telephone is a friend in need.
